Those Happy Days

And that's the truth . . .

What can Santa bring you?

Those were the days, my friend
We thought they'd never end;
We'd sing and dance
For ever and a day.
We'd live the life we choose;
We'd fight and never lose.
Those were the days
Oh yes, those were the days.

"Our Friends at Belmont"

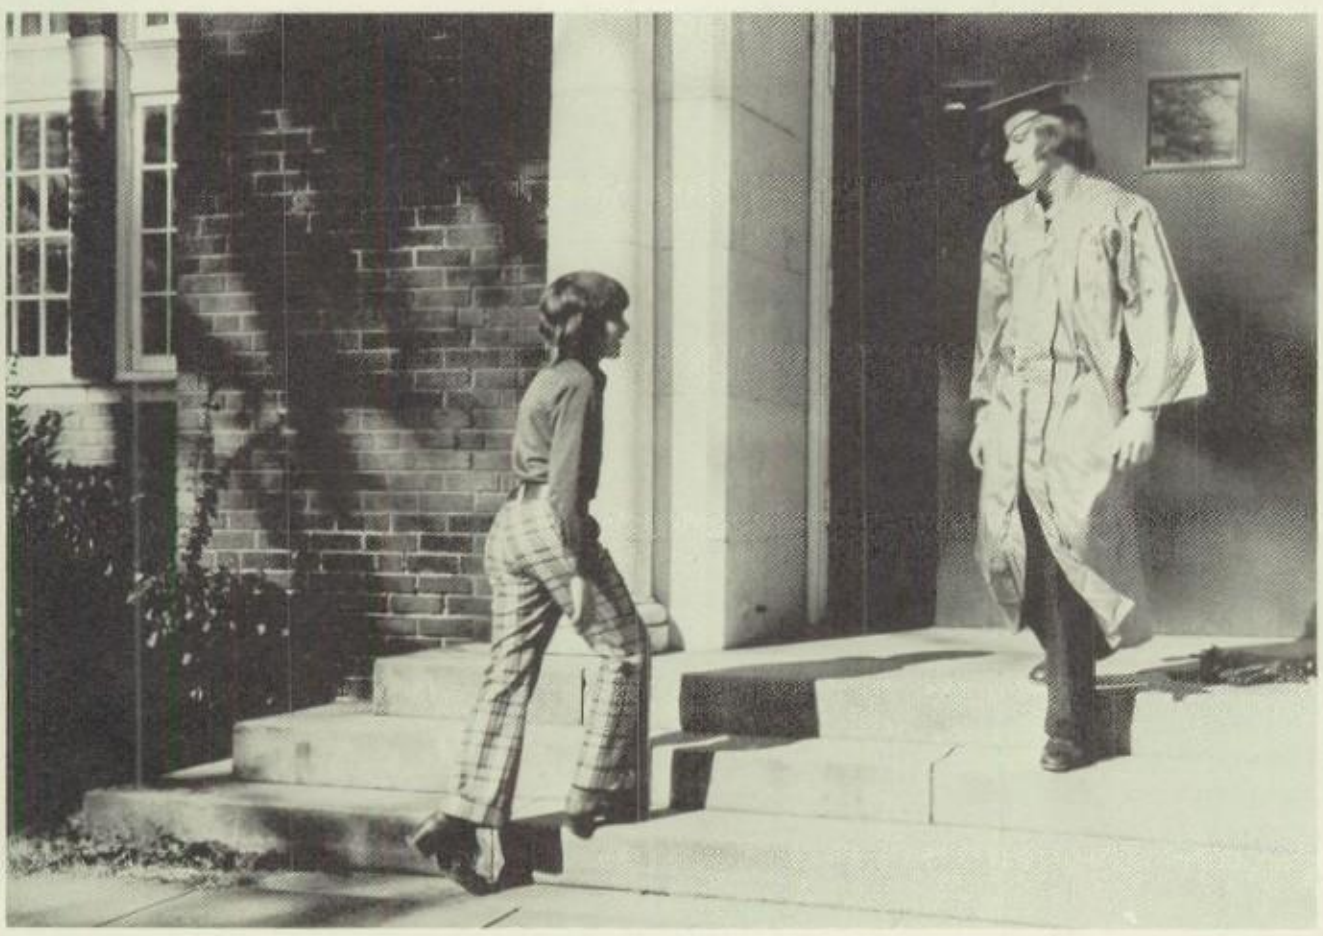
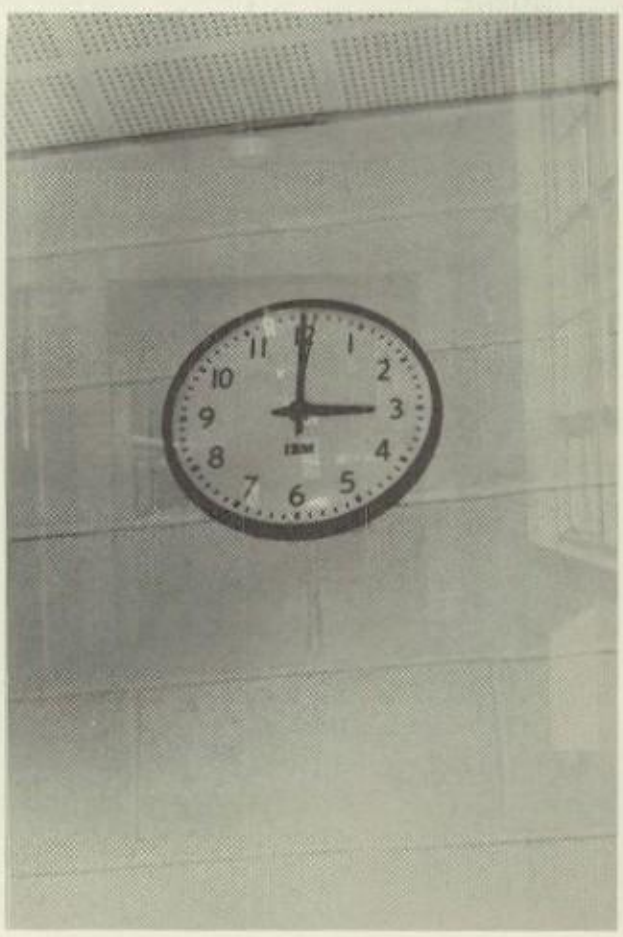
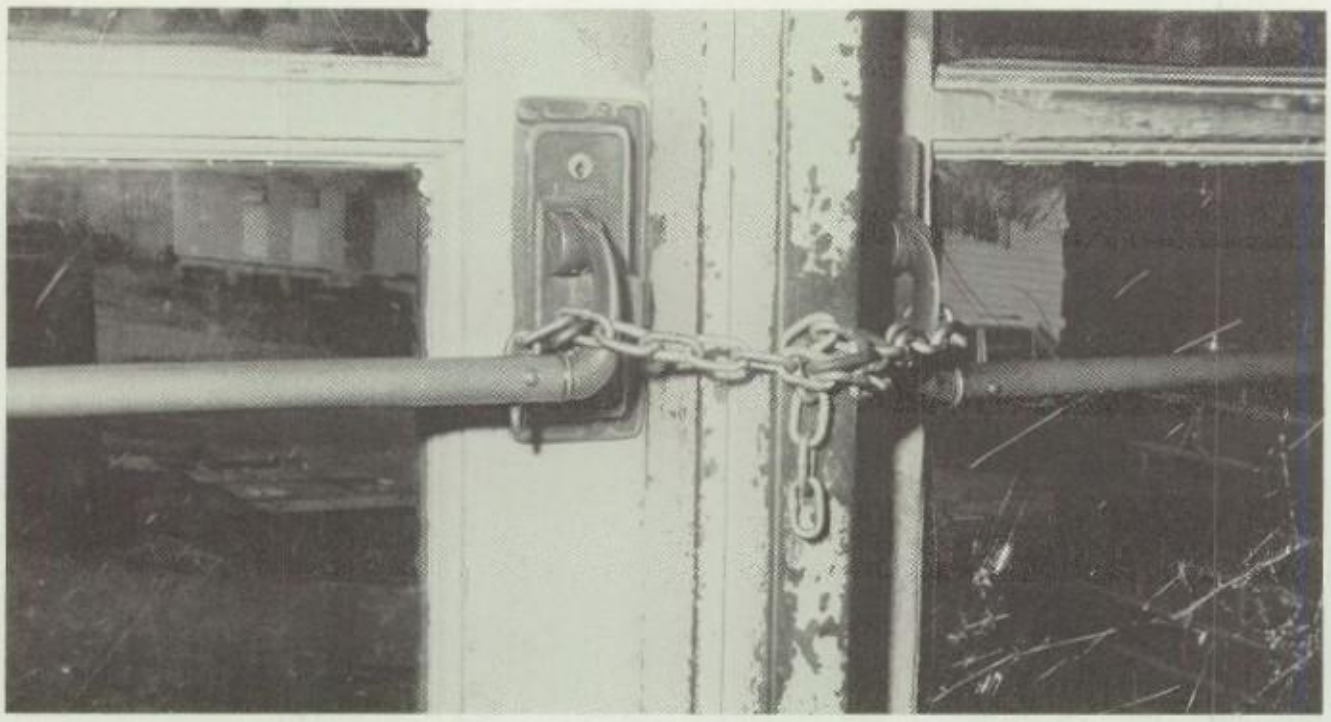
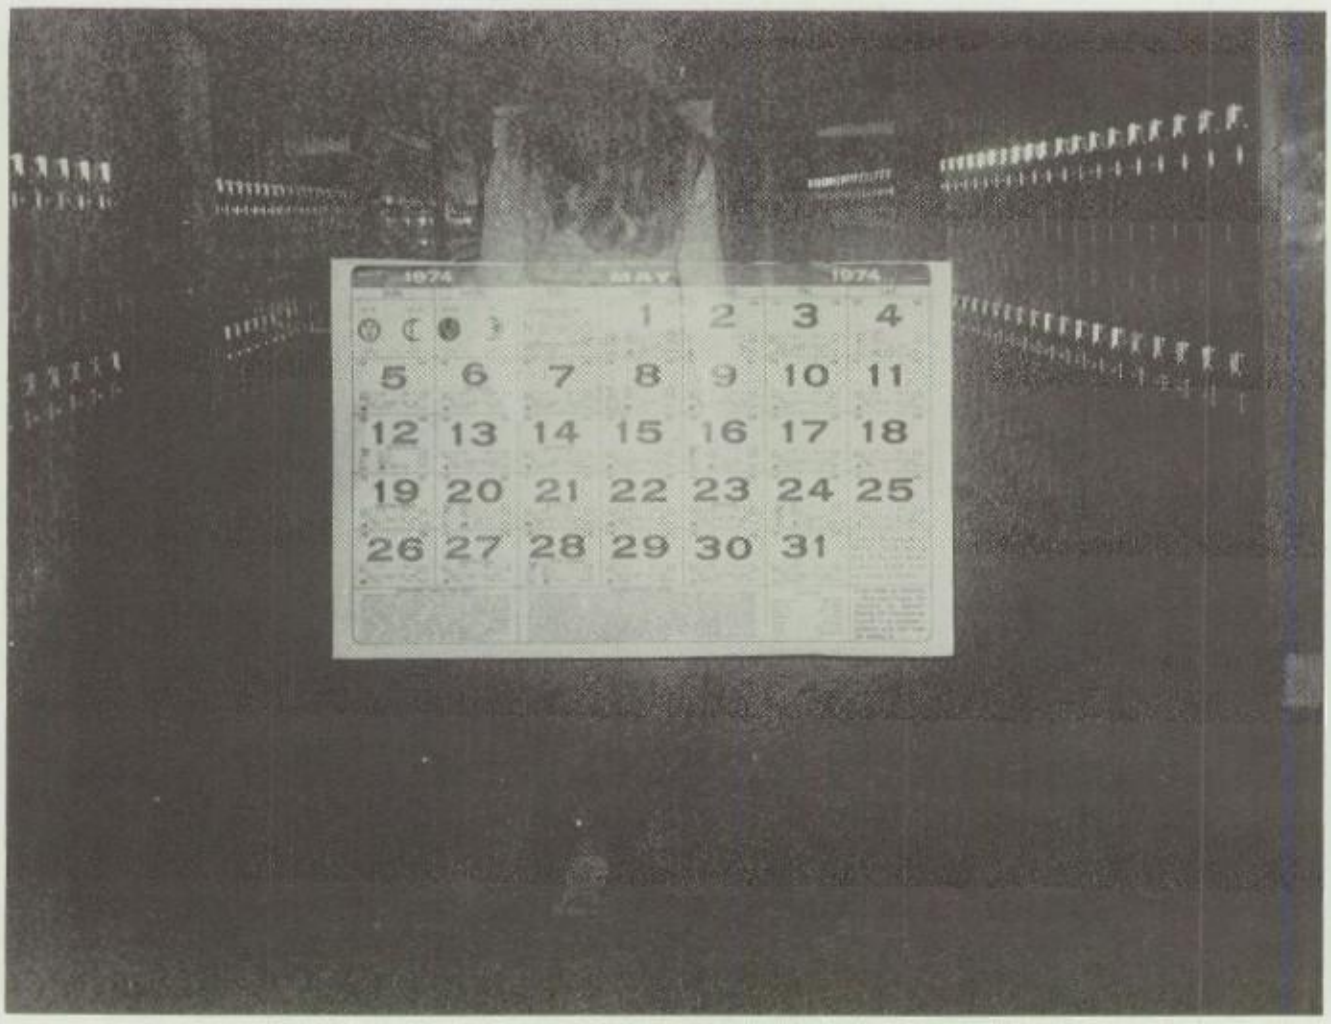
This is the closing of my house for a while. Evidences of the ending of many of the physical things are actually seen. Within, the memories of the good and the uneasy remain so quiet only to be awakened again in another time. This is what makes my house so real.

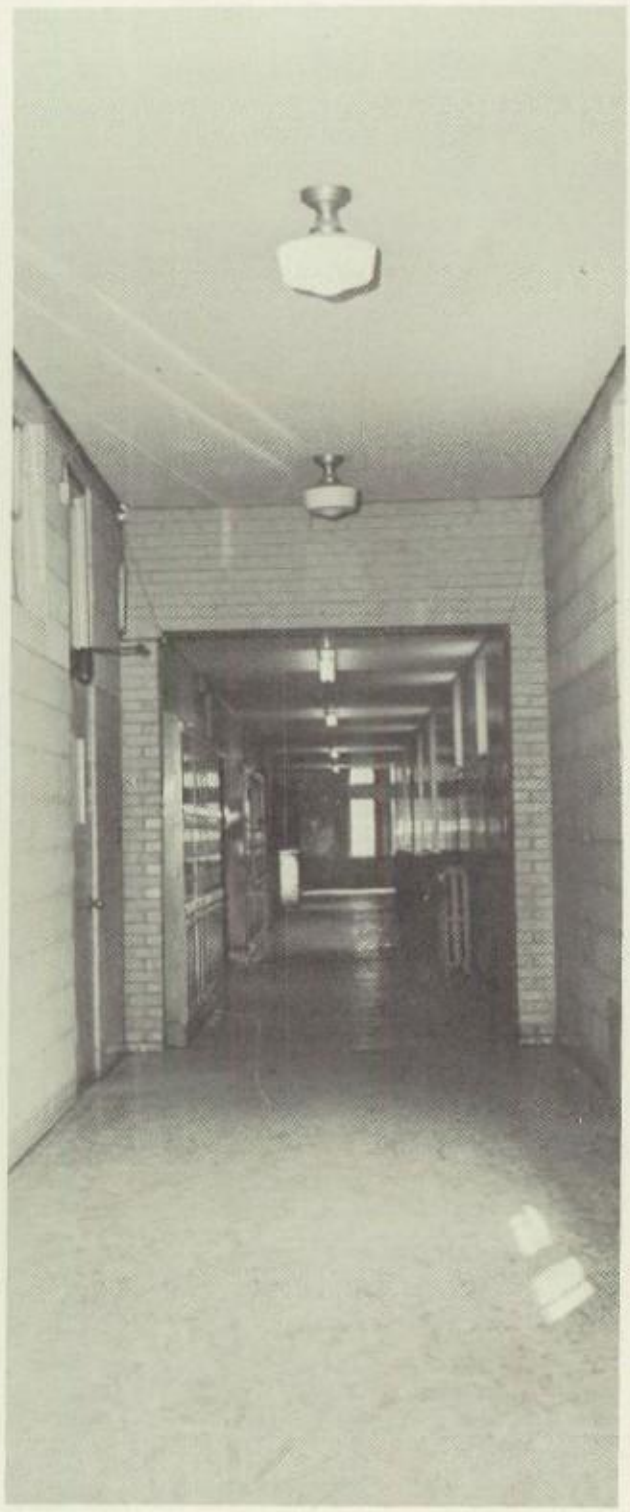






The moments before the exit tell stories of the last signs that become the typical trademarks of my house.





The emptiness of passageways tell the story of loneliness, but the saga of thousands who have passed through to experience great things for a fuller life.

Now reality closes the door of my house as the inevitable comes before us — the inevitable that friends who have loved, still love, and that laughter, beauty, and happiness stay on as long as my house remains and my faith is alive.

Pam, I've enjoyed having study hall with you this year. Stay as sweet and cute as you are now and you will go far in life. God Bless you always.
"76" Love,
Cindy

This is my house; the door is open and I shall enter. I shall be happy here because my house has so many windows and my companions are friends who love me. Here I will find laughter, love, romance, beauty and happiness. Reality and faith live here too.

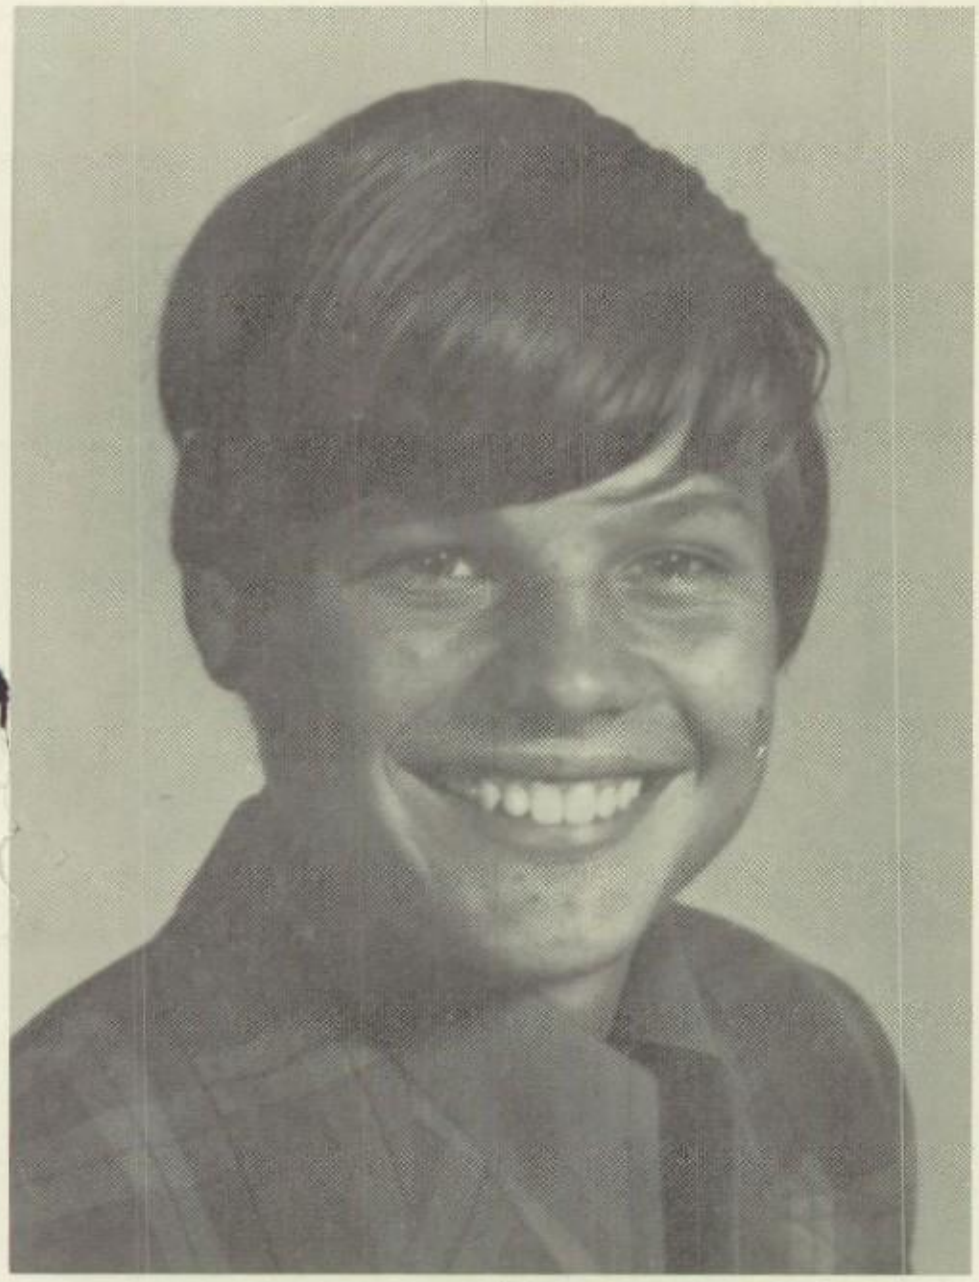
REMEMBRANCE

Donald (Jay) Ferguson

August 9, 1958 — July 14, 1973



Life to him was happiness and joy, a time filled full with hearty friends and moments that dared to be lost without a smile and warmth of a young heart which held the adventurous drive of a young boy loved, deeply missed and long remembered as one who was "to die, but yet to live."

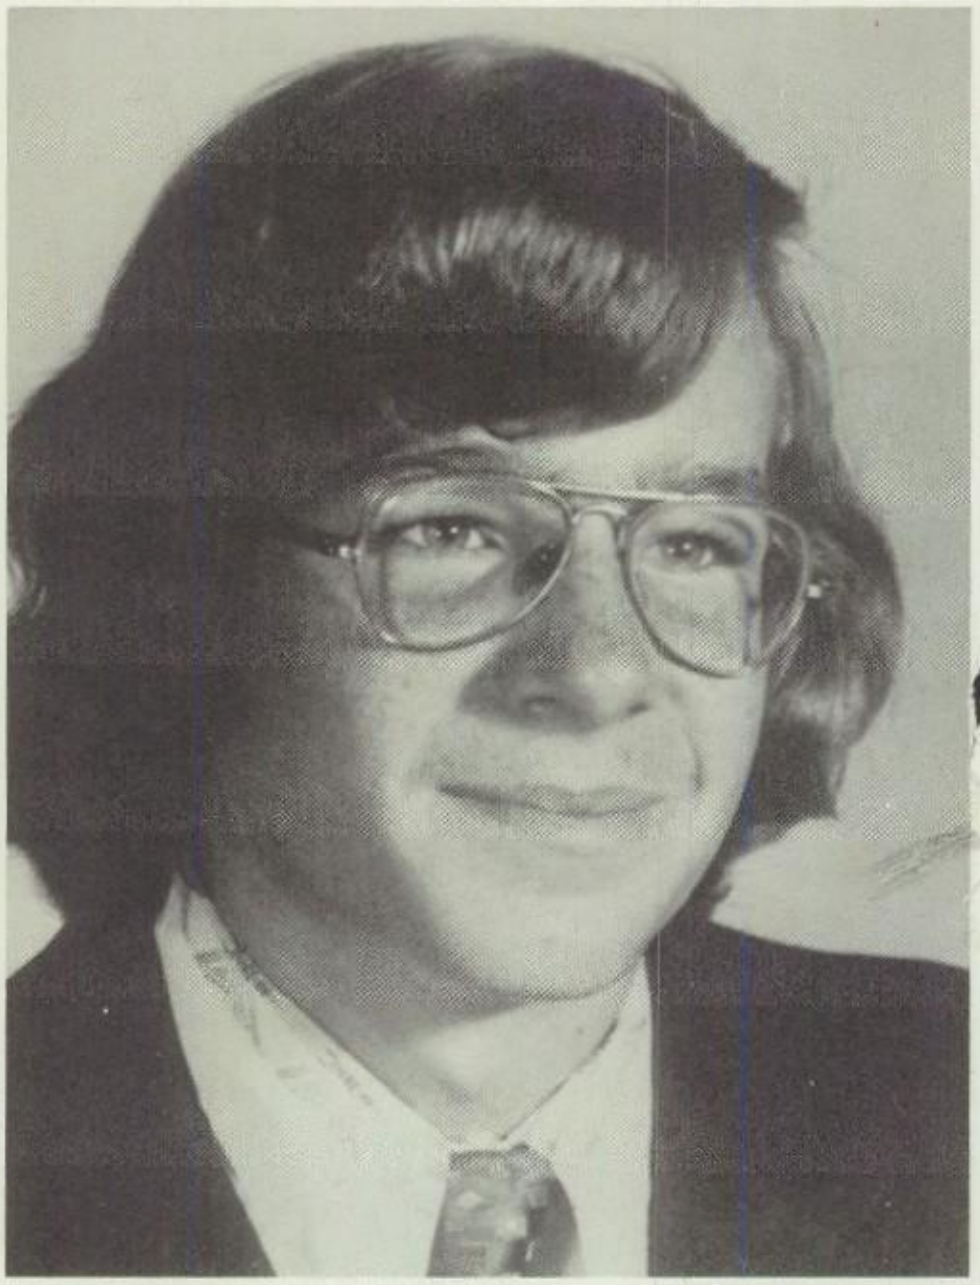
REMEMBRANCE

James Richard (Ricky) Runge
February 8, 1957 — September 13, 1973



Through the long remembrance of one who spent short years — who held the perception of the needs of others — who kept self quietly shrouded with a depth of care to make those happy who were unhappy, and for one brief moment he caused laughter to ring out. He left a place, now void, filled with love and fondest recollections.
